Hillsdale College to Host Constitution Town Hall

Washington, D.C. —Hillsdale College’s Allan P. Kirby, Jr. Center for Constitutional Studies and Citizenship, based in Washington, D.C., will host “Reviving The Constitution,” a Constitution Town Hall, in Chantilly, Virginia, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. EST on January 30, 2010. The event will also be available online.

“At a time when the Constitution is largely ignored in Washington, it is vital for citizens to remember its enduring principles,” said Hillsdale College President Dr. Larry P. Arnn. “This town hall will discuss how those principles have been undermined, and how they can be recovered.”

The town hall will consist of a panel of constitutional scholars making brief presentations, followed by questions from both present and online participants. Topics to be covered include:

- The Declaration of Independence and the Principles of Free Government
- The American Constitution
- The Constitution and the Civil War
- The Progressive Attack on the Constitution
- American Government Today and What Citizens Can Do to Revive the Constitution

“The Constitution is not just the domain of judges and lawyers,” said Kirby Center Director Dr. David J. Bobb. “It is the responsibility of all Americans to understand and uphold it, and our aim with this town hall is to help equip citizens to do so.”

This event is open to the media. Further information and registration instructions can be found at constitutiontownhall.com.
