Hillsdale, Mich. – Hillsdale College recently announced that its John A. Halter Shooting Sports Education Center now offers annual membership passes to its world-class facilities.

“We are excited to provide this opportunity for more people in the community and the region to use our shooting sports education facilities,” said Bart Spieth, range master at Hillsdale’s Halter Center. “The Halter Center is an important part of Hillsdale College’s educational offerings. With this membership opportunity, even more people can learn to shoot safely and accurately.”

Membership provides exclusive access to the Halter Center’s trap, skeet, and sporting clays courses and exclusive access to the archery and pistol ranges. Also included are discounts on clay targets and golf cart rentals at the facility. Annual memberships cost $125 and immediate family members may be added for $25 per person.

With 113 acres designated for small arms, archery, and shotgun ranges, the John Anthony Halter Shooting Sports Education Center serves recreational and educational purposes by promoting interest in shooting sports and the ideals of the Constitution and training shooters of all experience levels through various classes.
