SEMINAR SERIES ON TEACHING AMERICAN CIVICS

The Purpose and Structure of the Constitution

A one-day seminar for middle and high school teachers of civics, social studies, and history

April 3, 2020

Gaylord Palms Resort and Convention Center
6000 West Osceola Parkway
Kissimmee, Florida 34746

PARTICIPANTS WILL EXPLORE the purpose and structure of the Constitution. They will consider such questions as: What are the principles underlying the Constitution? Why is representation essential to constitutional government? What's wrong with delegation? How is separation of powers supposed to work, and how does it work today? Lectures and discussions will be led by three Hillsdale College faculty members:

- Dr. Adam Carrington, Assistant Professor of Politics
- Dr. Ronald Pestritto, Charles and Lucia Shipley Professor of the American Constitution
- Dr. Kevin Portteus, Lawrence Fertig Professor of Politics

This seminar is entirely free of charge.

All participants will receive:

- books to supplement the lectures;
- a pocket copy of the Constitution; and
- a certificate of attendance.

(Continental breakfast and lunch will be provided.)
