Hillsdale College Announces 2022-2023 Fireside Lecture Series

The series takes place at the College's Rockwell Lake Lodge

HILLSDALE, Mich. — Hillsdale College announces its 2022-2023 Fireside Lecture Series. The series offers five weekend-long lectures hosted by various professors from Hillsdale College and will once again take place at the College's Rockwell Lake Lodge in Luther, Michigan. The lecture series is now in its fourth year.

“The Fireside Lecture Series is an opportunity for friends of the College to have one-on-one interactions with professors and fellowship with like-minded people throughout a relaxed, fun weekend,” said Kristine Healy, director of the Fireside Lecture Series and event manager for the Dow Center and Rockwell Lake Lodge.

The Rockwell Lake Lodge has 10 luxury guest suites, each of which features a living room, kitchenette, and private balcony. This makes for an intimate attendance of approximately 20 guests per series. Each weekend includes a night of live music and seasonal programming.

The lecture topics available for the academic year are:

Jan. 27-29, 2023: “The Rise and Fall of Journalism in America”

John J. Miller, director of the Herbert H. Dow II Program in American Journalism

Feb. 10-12, 2023: “Russell Kirk and T.S. Eliot: Great Minds”

Brad Birzer, professor of history

March 24-26, 2023: “Preparing for Easter”
